The Grave of Mrs. Surratt.

The following relative to Mrs. Snrratt, who was hung in this city in 1865 with the Lincoln conspirators, appears in the Washington Star: In Mount Olivet Cemetery, on the Bladensburg road, who, it will be remembered, was hung on the 2d day of July, 1865, as one of the conspirators implicated in the assassination of President Lincoln. Her body was buried in the Arsenal Grounds near the scaffold, with those of Payne, Harold and Atzerodt; and subsequently Wirz, of Andersonville notoriety, was buried near them. While the bodies were lying there plain headboards were placed over their graves. When the old Penitentiary Building was torn down the remains of John Wilkes Booth, buried in the end of the building. and the bodies above named were all moved into one of the large store-houses of the Arsenal and placed under the flagging. About the close of President Johnson's Administration the bodies were surrendered to the friends or relatives of the deceased persons, and were removed elsewhere-those of Wirz and Mrs. Surratt being taken to Mt. Olivet. When the body of the latter was exhumed a black ribbon tied in a bow-knot was removed from her dress as a memento. A number of her former friends were present when the reinterment was made, in a lot at the extreme north-west corner of the cemetery. Stones marked with the letter "S" were set at the corners of the lot. With no other mark the spot was difficult to find without guidance, and Mr. Duffy, the sexton at the time and for several years afterward, was frequently called upon to point out the spot where Mrs. Surratt was buried. About 1865 Mr. Gustavus Craney, a stone-cutter residing in this city, was burg, beat his wife in such a brutal manengaged in putting up some head-stones in ner that she died in an hour. He was the ground, and Mr. Duffy called his at- arrested. tention to the want of a stone to mark Mrs. Surratt's grave. Mr. Craney agreed to cut the letters on a stone if Mr. Duffy procured one. Mr. Duffy, having procured a stone, it was chiseled by Mr. Craney, who cut the name "Mrs. Surratt" upon it, and set it at the head of the grave. Since then there have been two other interments on the lot-one a grandchild of Mrs. Surratt, and the other Dr. Thomas, of New Orleans.

Dan Spaulding who lives in the lower portion of the city, and who is engaged with his father in the tobacco business, was seriously if not fatally, wounded by one John Martin, and from all accounts it appears as if the murderous assault was entirely unprovoked. Saturday night as Mr. Spaulding was going to his home on Twenty-fourth and Madison streets, he stepped into Wetters' bar-room, and after settling some business, he asked Mr. Wetters. he stepped into Wetters' bar-room, and after settling some business, he asked Mr. Wetters, his son-in-law, and Louis Beck, who wee in the saloon, to join him in a glass of beer, and while they while they were thus engaged Martin entered, being a stranger, at least to some of those present. He was under the influence of liquor at the time, and began a tirade of abuse on old man Wick, when Spaulding remarked to Martin, "We are having a friendly conversation, and you have nothing to do with it." At this Martin took offense and drew a knife, cutting Spaulding twice in the left side, the blade ting Spaulding twice in the left side, the blade of the knife penetrating the lung, and in the face. The matter was kept quiet until yesterday, when Martin was arrested by Lieutenant Pennington and Officers Bradley and O'Mara. This morning it was reported that the wounds of Spaulding were more serious than at first supposed, and when Martin was presented to the city court the case was continued until next Friday, and the accused committed to jail to await an examination. If Mr. Spauldto jail to await an examination, If Mr. Spaulding should die this will add another to the long list of murders now on the docket of the circuit

Sharon, Pa., are stopping at the Perkins House. Mrs. Sallie M. Plummer has just closed the public school term at this place. Mrs, P. is a very popular educator and gave, as she always does, general satisfaction.

Ex-sheriff Samuel Ellis a man known from the center far beyond the circumference of this county, was stricken down, on Saturday last, with partial paralysis. His condition though critical is hopeful.

The "amount of sales" of R. L. Gillespie on Saturday February 18 was $356.46 cents. This Mr. G. claims is the biggest day's work ever done by any firm in Tollesboro.

Our worthy P. M. is a man "whose arms of love would grasp the human race" and when informed on Sunday afternoon that the hand of charity was beckoning him toward a certain humble cottage, "stood not upon the order of his going but went at once," arriving just in time -- to name the baby.

The Courier's account of the late fire here is incorrect in several particulars. The fire was not at night but at 11:30 a, m. The family with the exception of Mr. Jordon was at home. Everything was not lost but nearly everything was saved. Instead of being no insurance there was something over $500. VINHENHER.

MOUNT HEBRON.

Manley Trussel, of Tollesboro, was visiting friends at this place last week.

Thomas McDonald, one of our prosperous farmers, we regret to say, has sold his larm and contemplates moving to Chester, Mason Co.

The quarterly meeting of the M. E. Church, South, which was held at Mt. Hebron Church has closed. Attendance small, owing to inclement weather. The meetings were conducted by Revs. Hardy, of Bethel, and H. C. Morrison, preacher in charge. PRUDENCE.

A. D. Rains sold a fine three-year-old colt to Ed. Martin, of Brown county, O., for $135.

We regret to note the illness of Miss Maud Foster with inflammatory rheumatism.

Miss Annie Redmond, of Maysville, was visiting the family of her uncle, Pat Claire the past week.

The recent protracted rains are discouraging to the farmers, as very little plowing has as yet been done.

Those contemplating growing tobacco will. as soon as the weather permits, commence burning plant beds.

BATCHELDER'S Ventilated Egg

Patented February 15, 1881.

Indispensible to Merchants Shippers

The outside frame of this carrier contains five trays, held in place by fasteners at end of case, as seen in cut. These Trays are constructed in reversible halves. The above cut shows one whole tray filled ready to be placed in case, each egg resting in its cardboard socket in such a manner as to be readily counted, candled, or transferred from tray to tray, or case to case, without rehandling.

For cold storage this case will store 60 dozen with racks made to receive the half trays, hence this is the cheapest storage case manufactured, saving largely in space.

The manner of holding the eggs on end prevents oscillation, addling, or brekage, and adds greatly to their freshness when carried long in storage. Size of 30 dozen No. 1 cases 25x12x14, weighs 20 pounds.
